Natural Science and Indigenous Knowledge Edward A. Johnson, Susan M. Arlidge, 2024-04-18 How do we combine the areas of intersection between science and indigenous knowledge but without losing the totality of both This book's objective is to consider how Indigenous populations have lived and managed the landscape Specifically how their footprint was a result of the combination of their empirical knowledge and their culture The chapters are divided into four groups The first deals with reintegrating cultures and natural landscapes and the role of kinship and oral tradition The second group approaches the landscape as a living university of learning and managing discussing the ethnobotany of how to grow more responsibly and assess and project the harvest The third group deals with the managing of fire in an anthropogenic plant community and how to integrate indigenous agriculture in hydrology and dry regions The fourth group consists of studies of how science and indigenous knowledge can be taught in schools using land based studies

Self-directed learning research and its impact on educational practice Elsa Mentz, Roxanne Bailey, 2021-05-17 This scholarly book is the third volume in an NWU book series on self directed learning and is devoted to self directed learning research and its impact on educational practice The importance of self directed learning for learners in the 21st century to equip themselves with the necessary skills to take responsibility for their own learning for life cannot be over emphasised The target audience does not only consist of scholars in the field of self directed learning in Higher Education and the Schooling sector but includes all scholars in the field of teaching and learning in all education and training sectors The book contributes to the discourse on creating dispositions towards self directed learning among all learners and adds to the latest body of scholarship in terms of self directed learning Although from different perspectives all chapters in the book are closely linked together around self directed learning as a central theme following on the work done in Volume 1 of this series Self Directed Learning for the 21st Century Implications for Higher Education to form a rich knowledge bank of work on self directed learning
