The Stalker Affair and the Press David Murphy, 2022-09-01 First published in 1991 The Stalker Affair and the Press documents the media treatment of police constable John Stalker's removal from his job and argues that this case presents a major difficulty for the standard academic analysis of the press in Britain namely that it supports the status quo because it is part of the dominant class system The author argues that the exclusion of non official and dissident versions of the events can be explained by more direct causes the ownership of the press and the routine nature of normal news production which relies on official and established sources Where such sources do not produce an account of events as in the case of the Stalker affair the overwhelming majority of press output questioned the legitimacy of state actions even to the extent of entertaining the notion that its agents had conspired to commit murder and to pervert the course of justice David Murphy's fascinating analysis picks apart the notion of a system controlling production to demonstrate the complex interaction between methods of individual journalists their sources and the ways news is produced This book will be of great interest to students and teachers of media studies cultural studies journalism and communication studies

News in the Regions Alastair Hetherington, 1989-06-01 This book gives an inside view of journalists at work in the Midlands Yorkshire South East England and Central Scotland with relevance also to other areas It examines news priorities decision making sources and the differences between newspapers television news and radio

The regeneration of east Manchester Georgina Blakeley, Brendan Evans, 2015-11-01 East Manchester has been the site of one of the most substantial regeneration projects internationally The initiative in east Manchester confirmed the tag that the city is the regeneration capital of the United Kingdom While the book focuses on a single project it has wider relevance to national and international regeneration initiatives The book assesses the outcomes of the regeneration although it demonstrates the difficulties in producing a definitive evaluation It has a political focus and illuminates and challenges many assumptions underpinning three major current academic debates governance participatory democracy and ideology The book is relevant to students of politics geography sociology public administration and recent history but will also interest practitioners academics and general readers interested in urban regeneration Mancunians will also be fascinated by the rapidly changing face and character of their city as will those with an interest in Manchester's football the Commonwealth Games and Sportcity
