Chapter 17. MONOPOLISTIC COMPETITION

Solutions to Problems and Applications

 - a. The market for #2 pencils is perfectly competitive since pencils by any manufacturer are identical and there are a large number of manufacturers.
 - b. The market for bottled water is monopolistically competitive because of consumers' concerns about quality. As a result, each producer has a slightly different product.
 - c. The market for copper is perfectly competitive, since all copper is identical and there are a large number of producers.
 - d. The market for local telephone service is monopolistic because it is a natural monopoly—it is cheaper for one firm to supply all the output.
 - e. The market for peanut butter is monopolistically competitive because different brand names exist with different quality characteristics.
 - f. The market for lipstick is monopolistically competitive because lipstick from different firms differs slightly, but there are a large number of firms who can enter or exit without restriction.
2. A monopolistic firm produces a product for which there are no close substitutes, but a monopolistically competitive firm produces a product that is only somewhat different from substitute goods. So the goods differ in terms of the degree to which substitutes exist.
3. Monopolistically competitive firms don't increase the quantity they produce to lower the average cost of production because doing so would require them to lower their price. The loss in revenue from the lower price outweighs the benefits of the lower cost of production.
 - a. Figure 4 illustrates the market for Sparkle toothpaste in long-run equilibrium. The profit-maximizing level of output is Q_4 and the price is P_4 .

Macroeconometrics Carlo A. Favero, 2001-01-11 This text provides graduate students of macroeconomics econometrics and monetary economics with discussion and practical illustrations of the techniques used in applied macroeconometrics Until the 1970s there was consensus regarding both the theoretical foundations and the empirical specification of applied macroeconomic modelling commonly known as the Cowles Commission approach This is no longer the case the Cowles Commission approach broke down in the 1970s to be replaced by a number of prominent competing methods the LSE London School of Economics approach the VAR approach and the intertemporal optimization Real Business Cycle approach Applied Macroeconometrics examines the empirical research strategy of these alternatives by interpreting them as attempts to solve the problems observed in the Cowles Commission approach The different research strategies are illustrated with specific reference to real world examples particularly with respect to the monetary transmission mechanism A common US dataset is used in these examples thus allowing the reader easy comparisons The presentation is based on the view that identification a central concept in econometrics provides a natural framework in which to discuss the alternative strategies currently dominating research The first part of the book introduces time series models and details the importance of their identification The second part illustrates chapter by chapter the alternative approaches providing detailed applications of each methodology Data used in the applications are available in a variety of formats from the author's web site and will be supplemented by exercises for the reader to perform The Macroeconomic Effects of Rule-of-thumb Consumer Behavior

Deficit Hysteria Arthur Benavie, 1998-09-30 The political consensus in the United States today is that the nation must avoid deficit spending But as virtuous and unassailable as that goal sounds it has fallacies and dangers In a lucid nontechnical writing style Benavie shows that deficits can be either good or bad and explains how to tell the difference Deficits or government borrowing can be beneficial to the nation's economic health he shows in three main ways When the economy slumps a deficit is automatically created and helps to reduce the severity of the recession When the economy is seriously depressed boosting the deficit may be the only cure and deficits supporting such investments as basic research cleaning up toxic waste and rebuilding inner cities are crucial to the economic health of future generations Preventing such borrowing would be comparable to preventing one's family from borrowing money to buy a house or to put a child through college
