Management Control Systems and Cross-Cultural Research Michael Hanzlick, 2015-01-31 A fundamental challenge that management faces in the twenty first century is how to exercise adequate control i e how to guide and direct the behaviour of their subordinates With increasing globalisation firms witness a cross cultural impact too Of particular interest is the question of whether to use the standardized form of control similar to the home base of firms or whether to adapt their control practices to the local specificities Given the meagre state of the literature in management control with a cross cultural emphasis this study addresses a real world problem namely the question whether management control practices are configured similarly or differently across cultures Relying on a generalized industry sample across four countries Belgium Canada Germany and Poland this study sought to shed light on one of the more intriguing questions does culture matter for specific control areas in particular for performance measurement performance evaluation and reward systems The theoretical foundations are grounded in the cultural framework of the GLOBE project accompanied by thoughts of new institutionalism stakeholder theory and contingency thoughts Hypotheses are tested by mean comparisons ANOVA ANCOVA The empirical findings highlight cultural differences for a broader set of control practices and deliver new insights into the intersection of culture and management control This dissertation crafts a novel topic with high relevance for both researchers and practitioners The study demonstrates areas for which management control practices should be adapted to the local needs and areas for which those practices could be harmonized in the whole company This monograph stresses some areas in which future empirical cross cultural research can benefit and some areas where conceptual thoughts could be advanced

Review Erik R. Strauss, 2015. The purpose of this paper is to review analytical conceptualizations of management control systems (MCS) that have been developed in the academic literature. By means of a systematic review, Tranfield et al. in Br J Manag 14: 207-222 (2003) a comprehensive analysis that encompasses both textbook approaches and research papers is provided. As a result, this article presents a landscape of possible MCS understandings. For the selection of textbooks, a survey among accounting researchers and a syllabi search were conducted. Hoffjan and Wimpener in Schmalenbach Bus Rev 58: 234-258 (2006) Merchant and Van der Stede Management control systems: Performance measurement, evaluation, and incentives 2nd edn, Prentice Hall, Harlow (2003) Anthony and Govindarajan Management control systems 12th edn, McGraw Hill, Boston (2007) and Simons Performance measurement and control systems for implementing strategy, Pearson, Upper Saddle River (2000) as the three top ranked textbooks were analyzed and used to generate criteria for the subsequent identification of relevant articles. Additional conceptual papers were included in the analysis. Accordingly, this paper contributes to the management control literature by presenting a review of analytical conceptualizations of MCS. In contrast to previous reviews, we compare analytical concepts of MCS at different categories such as definitions, purposes, types, and frameworks. Moreover, our review was conducted in a systematic manner, i.e., it follows a transparent and thorough process, and by doing this, it complements prior, not primarily objective reviews. Finally, we outline a map of the fragmented MCS landscape. APTIKOM Journal on Computer Science and Information Technologies (CSIT) Vol. 4 No. 3 November 2019 APTIKOM Journal
