Education Abroad and the Undergraduate Experience Elizabeth Brewer, Anthony C. Ogden, 2023-07-03 Co published with This volume focuses on two questions First how can education abroad be embedded into undergraduate education so that students experience it as an integral component of their education and something they help shape rather than as time away from their education and as a commodity to be consumed Second how can colleges and universities maximize the educational value of education abroad by forging stronger connections between it and other undergraduate experiences The volume argues that learning abroad be positioned within the work of the larger institution and students overall education Organized within three sections this volume makes the case that learning abroad must be positioned within the work of the larger institution and students overall education In doing so it questions many current assumptions and stimulates thinking about the power of an integrative approach to education abroad to lead to lasting educative value An integrative approach requires that students be afforded multiple opportunities and ongoing support to draw connections with their learning abroad with other dimensions of their undergraduate education Chapters cover topics such as the additive value of integrating multiple HIPs with education abroad to span disciplinary boundaries and promote an array of soft or operational skills the importance of maintaining the disruptive quality of the encounter with the foreign to enrich study at home issues of commodification and reciprocity increasing access to study abroad to community college particularly adult populations facilitating students social and intellectual development identity formation and reflective practice rethinking orientation programming to emphasize the continuity of learning pre during and post education abroad asking fundamental questions about the purpose of education abroad to rethink assessment and its purposes the faculty role in the internationalization of the curriculum and developing more intentional relationships with in field partners and international educational organizations to more effectively connect leaning abroad with other dimensions of undergraduate education For everyone involved in international education whether SIOs faculty department chairs or deans the critical questions and new perspectives offered here will inform and shape the growing movement to integrate education abroad with the overall undergraduate experience

Uprooting and Development George V. Coelho, 2013-04-17 Uprooting has to do with one of the fundamental properties of human life the need to change and with the personal and societal mechanisms for dealing with that need As with the more general problems of change uprooting can be a time of human disaster and desolation or a time of adaptation and growth into new capacities The special quality of uprooting is that the need to change is faced at a time of separation from accustomed social cultural and environmental support systems It is this separation from familiar supports that either renders the uprooted vulnerable to the destructive consequences of change or creates freedoms for their evolution into new and constructive patterns of life

Whether the outcomes will be destructive or constructive will be determined by the forces at work the nature and power of the uprooting forces versus the personal and societal capacities for coping with them Uprooting events are so widespread as to be compared with the major rites of life but with the difference that dislocation is involved Uprooting reaches from self imposed movements such as rural to urban migration running away and traveling abroad for schooling to natural and man made disasters such as earthquakes political oppression and war The impacts vary from the need to adapt to a new culture for an interim period of study to the desolating consequences of the total loss of family friends home and country
