Physical Activity and Sport During the First Ten Years of Life Richard Bailey, Jennifer P. Agans, Jean Côté, Andy Daly-Smith, Phillip D. Tomporowski, 2021-04-12 Evidence suggests that the first 10 or so years of life create the foundation for subsequent participation in recreational and health related physical activity This book brings together researchers and practitioners with expertise in issues related to physical activity physical education and sport during the primary elementary phase of schooling to explore these important issues Combining inter disciplinary perspectives the book addresses the inherent complexity of researching with young children It looks at the evidence on development during the first 10 years and how that evidence relates to physical activity and to sport in pre school school and out of school Finally the book offers a series of national case studies from Asia Europe and Africa demonstrating the importance of age appropriate sport and physical activity This is important reading for any student researcher educator or policy maker with an interest in physical activity and health education in the early years or at primary elementary level paediatric exercise science or youth sport

Between Mission and Market Daniel Rosenberg, 2017-04-26 Between Mission and Market The Freshman Year in a Corporate Age focuses on the arrival of college freshmen at the moment of the transformation it uses Adelphi University in suburban New York City to study an attempt to resolve first year difficulties As higher education institutions turn into enterprises run on business models the pressures of getting into college including the taking of the SAT and ACT have induced stress addictions eating disorders drug use and mental problems However special programs to ease the first year transition through counseling and support are run as cheaply as possible This book confronts some of the cardinal controversies in higher education particularly those affecting first year students high stakes testing in general particularly the SAT the intensification of student debt and the financial sentence imposed upon all who incur it and the dramatic pressures placed upon freshmen as they transition to college

Building Resilient Cities in China: The Nexus between Planning and Science Xueming Chen, Qisheng Pan, 2015-05-20 This book discusses a range of planning and management issues related to building urban resiliency It covers such topics as urban environmental and transportation planning historical preservation emergency relief and management geographic information systems GIS and other technological applications The book includes case studies of several cities and districts in China including Shanghai and a number of cities in the United States of America Urban resiliency in the face of uncertainty is a priority for planning and governance in communities worldwide In China which has suffered many of the world s most devastating floods earthquakes and typhoons preparing for the threat of disaster has long been an important planning objective Recent calamities such as the 2008 Winter Storms the 2008 Wenchuan Earthquake and the 2012 Beijing Floods have only made planning for resiliency more urgent As planners work to prepare for such events interdisciplinary collaboration becomes increasingly important Planners need the tools and insights offered by other fields including both the natural and social sciences At the same time these interdisciplinary relationships help shape the identity of urban rural planning in its new role as one of China's primary academic disciplines. Thus the nexus between planning and science is critically important in building resilient cities in China and the Chinese planning experience can serve as an example to and benefit countries around the world.
