Ebook: Adolescence Steinberg,2016-04-16 Ebook Adolescence Neuroscience, Learning and Educational Psychology
María Jesús Luque Rojas,Eduardo Blanco Calvo,María Teresa Martín-Aragoneses,2022-08-25 The Teaching and Learning Playbook Michael Feely,Ben Karlin,2022-11-30 The Teaching and Learning Playbook is a book and online resource containing more than 100 techniques that teachers and school leaders can use to drive improvements in their schools Each technique includes a summary of what the technique is why it is important the effect size and a four step guide to how it should be performed The Playbook provides a unique tool for teachers to identify how they can improve their teaching and practise with absolute clarity on what they need to do next All techniques are accompanied by a video to show the technique in action and spotlight the four key elements with detailed audio commentary to make it easier for teachers to replicate These can all be found on the website www.teachingandlearningplaybook.com Codifying the key skills for every teacher to get better and for every school leader to drive improvements in their school the Playbook covers Routines for Learning Questioning and Checking for Understanding Modelling Explaining and Feeding Back Resilience Independence and Retrieval Curriculum Beyond the Subject Classroom This essential resource provides a clear framework for teachers and school leaders to improve teaching and learning Simple to use and easily integrated into CPD and coaching programmes the Playbook will take your teaching to the next level Teaching Music in American Society Steven N. Kelly,2015-08-27 Successful professional music teachers must not only be knowledgeable in conducting and performing but also be socially and culturally aware of students issues and events that affect their classrooms This book provides comprehensive overview of social and cultural themes directly related to music education teacher training and successful teacher characteristics New topics in the second edition include the impact of Race to the Top social justice bullying alternative schools the influence of Common Core Standards and the effects of teacher and school assessments All topics and material are research based to provide a foundation and current perspective on each issue Marine Ecosystem Restoration (MER) - Challenges and New Horizons Brian Silliman,Avigdor Abelson,Christine Angelini,Gesche Krause,Megan Irene Saunders,Tjisse Van Der Heide,2023-10-23 Worldwide marine ecosystems have been lost and degraded due to anthropogenic disturbances For example oyster reefs have declined by at least 85% coral reefs by 19% seagrasses by 29% North American salt marshes by 42% and mangroves by 35% from the early 19th century Deepwater reefs and deep sea vents are not immune and have also been reduced in extent in many areas Factors driving these losses include habitat destruction pollution invasive species overfishing trawling mining and more recently climate change effects such as ocean warming species range changes and acidification These habitat declines are occurring at a time when marine waters are being used at or near their maximum productive capacity to meet the contemporary needs of an ever increasing human population Because coastal and marine ecosystems generate some of the richest biodiversity hotspots on Earth and provide critical ecosystem services including storm protection fisheries production and carbon storage over 1 billion US dollars have been spent globally in an attempt to halt and reverse observed declines Early conservation efforts aimed at protecting these valuable and threatened habitats focused on reducing human impacts and physical stressors However with habitat degradation continuing and sometimes increasing in rate it is now clear conservation alone will not be sufficient to protect and reestablish coastal ecosystems Habitat restoration although in existence for many decades has recently been elevated as a new primary strategy to stem and even reverse coastal habitat loss The call for increasing investment in restoration efforts has emerged with significant advances in propagule rearing and dispersion of habitat forming organisms e g oysters seagrasses corals In addition restoration resources are increasingly allocated by governments and or large corporations with the aim to for example fix past landscape engineering efforts that had unintended environmental consequences Such investments are being made to i provide jobs for those unemployed during economic downturns ii restore ecosystems destroyed by natural disasters and stressors iii increase coastal defense in response to increased frequency of intense storms and or iv compensate for pollution and development driven habitat degradation Conservation practitioners have traditionally been skeptical to invest heavily in restoration at large scales because of the high cost per area 10 000 5 000 000 US ha for coastal vs 500 5 000 US ha for terrestrial systems to replant coastal ecosystems and or the high chance that the restored ecosystems will not live long e g outplanted corals For restoration to be effective and employed as a primary method of coastal conservation at relevant scales we must improve its efficiency lower costs and rapidly share and incorporate advances One crucial step will be to identify when and where restoration attempts have been carried out according to state of art ecological theory and gauge their success Another is generating synthesis studies that focus both within and across ecosystems to identify efficiencies adaptations and innovations Work that shows theoretical and methodological innovations in specific ecosystems as well as across systems will be critical to pushing all fields of MER forward Although there is rapidly increasing interest and investment the field of marine ecosystem restoration is just beginning to undergo synthesis Therefore the aim of this Research Topic is to bring together research contributions to help address this synthesis need provide a spotlight for recent innovations enhance our understanding of successful methods in marine ecosystem restoration and promote integration of ecological sociological and engineering theory into restoration practices
