Exploring Consensual Leadership in Higher Education Lynne Gornall, Brychan Thomas, Lucy Sweetman, 2018-07-26
Exploring Consensual Leadership in Higher Education explores the idea that the nature of academic work is both creative and consensual. Higher education relationships, whether between managers, staff, learners or the public sphere, are at their most effective when rooted in partnership, teamwork, collaboration and collegiality. The term consensual is used because it situates new leadership models as structures based on consent, reflecting tacit traditions in education alongside ideas of leadership in other settings, including emerging industries. The aim is to celebrate achievements, encourage engagement opportunities and add to the problem-solving knowledge base. However, issues and problems in participatory engagement are also considered, and the borderlines between consensus, collective assent and agreement and dissensus, widespread serious disagreement, are examined critically. The contributors offer a range of alternative perspectives on leadership, reflecting the diverse forms and ways of working practised in different national higher educational contexts and cultural settings. The volume incorporates a variety of approaches and points of view, including stories of leadership and change, innovation projects and case studies, key interviews and insights, and collective team writing. The Shift towards Value Based Care

Scaling Up Disruptive Agricultural Technologies in Africa Jeehye Kim, Parmesh Shah, Joanne Catherine Gaskell, Ashesh Prasann, 2020-07-16
This study, which includes a pilot intervention in Kenya, aims to further the state of knowledge about the emerging trend of disruptive agricultural technologies (DATs) in Africa, with a focus on supply-side dynamics. The first part of the study is a stocktaking analysis to assess the number, scope, trend and characteristics of scalable disruptive technology innovators in agriculture in Africa. From a database of 434 existing DAT operations, the analysis identified 194 as scalable. The second part of the study is a comparative case study of Africa's two most successful DAT ecosystems in Kenya and Nigeria, which together account for half of Sub-Saharan Africa's active DATs. The objective of these two case studies is to understand the successes, challenges and opportunities faced by each country in fostering a conducive innovation ecosystem for scaling up DATs. The case study analysis focuses on six dimensions of the innovation ecosystem in Kenya and Nigeria finance regulatory environment culture density human capital and infrastructure The third part of the study is based on the interactions and learnings from a pilot event to boost the innovation ecosystem in Kenya The Disruptive Agricultural Technology Innovation Knowledge and Challenge Conference in Nairobi Kenya brought together more than 300 key stakeholders from large technology companies agribusiness companies and public agencies government representatives and experts from research and academic institutions and representatives from financial institutions foundations donors and venture capitalists Scaling Up Disruptive Agricultural Technologies in Africa concludes by establishing that DATs are demonstrating early indications of a positive impact in addressing food system constraints It offers potential entry points and policy recommendations to facilitate the broader adoption of DATs and improve the overall food system

Discourses of Globalisation and Higher Education Reforms Joseph Zajda,W. James Jacob,2022-03-15 This book examines some of the major higher education reforms and policy shifts globally particularly in the light of recent shifts in quality and standards driven education and policy research It critiques the neo liberal ideological imperatives of current higher education and policy reforms and illustrates the way that changes in the relationship between the state and higher education policy affect current trends in higher education reforms Using diverse comparative education paradigms from critical theory to historical comparative research the chapters focus on globalisation ideology and higher education reforms and examine both the reasons and outcomes of higher education reforms and policy change The book analyses and evaluates the policy shifts in methodological approaches to globalisation and higher education reforms and their impact on education policy and pedagogy The book contributes in a very scholarly way to a more holistic understanding of the nexus between globalisation comparative education research and higher education reforms
