The Right to Research Kate Reed, Marcia C. Schenck, 2023-01-15 Refugees and displaced people rarely figure as historical actors and almost never as historical narrators We often assume a person residing in a refugee camp lacking funding training social networks and other material resources that enable the research and writing of academic history cannot be a historian because a historian cannot be a person residing in a refugee camp The Right to Research disrupts this tautology by featuring nine works by refugee and host community researchers from across Africa Europe and the Middle East Identifying the intrinsic challenges of making space for diverse voices within a research framework and infrastructure that is inherently unequal this edited volume offers a critical reflection on what history means who narrates it and what happens when those long excluded from authorship bring their knowledge and perspectives to bear Chapters address topics such as education in Kakuma Refugee Camp the political power of hip hop in Rwanda women migrants to Yemen and the development of photojournalism in Kurdistan Exploring what it means to become a researcher The Right to Research understands historical scholarship as an ongoing conversation one in which we all have a right to participate Congressional Record United States.
