

Building the JavaScript Library

The first step in building the JavaScript library is to create a new file named `library.js` in the `src` directory. This file will contain the code for the library, which will be used by the application.

Next, we need to define the `Library` class. This class will be responsible for managing the state of the library and providing methods for interacting with it.

class Library {
  constructor() {
    this.items = [];
  }

  add(item) {
    this.items.push(item);

  remove(item) {
    this.items = this.items.filter(i => i !== item);
  }

  getItems() {
    return this.items;
  }
```

The `Library` class has a constructor that initializes the `items` array. It also has three methods: `add`, `remove`, and `getItems`. The `add` method adds a new item to the `items` array, the `remove` method removes an item from the `items` array, and the `getItems` method returns the `items` array.

Now that we have defined the `Library` class, we need to create an instance of it. We can do this by creating a new `Library` object and calling the `add` method to add some items to the library.

const library = new Library();
library.add('Book 1');
library.add('Book 2');
library.add('Book 3');
```

Finally, we need to export the `Library` class from the `library.js` file. We can do this by using the `export` keyword.
