Memorandum For Grade 1national Paper 2014 November:

Breaking Point Rebecca Schwartz Greene,2023-01-03 WINNER SOCIETY FOR MILITARY HISTORY DISTINGUISHED BOOK AWARDS FIRST BOOK This book informs the public for the first time about the impact of American psychiatry on soldiers during World War II Breaking Point is the first in depth history of American psychiatry in World War II Drawn from unpublished primary documents oral histories and the author s personal interviews and correspondence over years with key psychiatric and military policymakers it begins with Franklin Roosevelt s endorsement of a universal Selective Service psychiatric examination followed by Army and Navy pre and post induction examinations Ultimately 2 5 million men and women were rejected or discharged from military service on neuropsychiatric grounds Never before or since has the United States engaged in such a program In designing Selective Service Medical Circular No 1 psychiatrist Harry Stack Sullivan assumed psychiatrists could predict who might break down or falter in military service or even in civilian life thereafter While many American and European psychiatrists questioned this belief and huge numbers of American psychiatric casualties soon raised questions about screening s validity psychiatric and military leaders persisted in 1942 and 1943 in endorsing ever tougher screening and little else Soon families complained of fathers and teens being drafted instead of being identified as psychiatric 4Fs and Blacks and Native Americans among others complained of bias A frustrated General George S Patton famously slapped two malingering neuropsychiatric patients in Sicily a sentiment shared by Marshall and Eisenhower though they favored a tamer style Yet psychiatric rejections evacuations and discharges mounted While psychiatrist Roy Grinker and a few others treated soldiers close to the front in Tunisia in early 1943 this was the exception But as demand for manpower soared and psychiatrists finally went to the field and saw that combat itself not predisposition precipitated breakdown leading military psychiatrists switched their emphasis from screening to prevention and treatment But this switch was too little too late and slowed by a year long series of Inspector General investigations even while numbers of psychiatric casualties soared Ironically despite and even partly because of psychiatrists wartime performance plus the emotional toll of war postwar America soon witnessed a dramatic growth in numbers popularity and influence of the profession culminating in the National Mental Health Act 1946 But veterans with PTSD not recognized until 1980 were largely neglected

How We Teach Science John L. Rudolph,2019-06-01 A former Wisconsin high school science teacher makes the case that how and why we teach science matters especially now that its legitimacy is under attack Why teach science The answer to that question will determine how it is taught Yet despite the enduring belief in this country that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process Nearly all of the basic knowledge we have about the world is rock solid The science we teach in high schools in particular laws of motion the structure of the atom cell division DNA replication the universal speed limit of light is accepted as the way nature works Everyone also agrees that students and the public more generally should understand the methods used to gain this knowledge But what exactly is the scientific method Ever since the late 1800s scientists and science educators have grappled with that question Through the years they've advanced an assortment of strategies ranging from the laboratory method to the five step method to science as inquiry to no method at all How We Teach Science reveals that each strategy was influenced by the intellectual cultural and political circumstances of the time In some eras learning about experimentation and scientific inquiry was seen to contribute to an individual's intellectual and moral improvement while in others it was viewed as a way to minimize public interference in institutional science John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and ultimately determine how science is perceived and received by the public

Learning and Reconciliation Through Indigenous Education in Oceania Pangelinan, Perry Jason Camacho, McVey, Troy, 2021-12-10 The mission of higher education in the 21st century must address the reconciliation of student learning and experiences through the lens of indigenous education and frameworks Higher learning institutions throughout the oceanic countries have established frameworks for addressing indigeneity through the infusion of an indigenous perspectives curriculum The incorporation of island indigenous frameworks into their respective curriculums colleges and universities in the oceanic countries has seen positive impact results on student learning leading to the creation of authentic experiences in higher education landscapes Learning and Reconciliation Through Indigenous Education in Oceania discusses ways of promoting active student learning and unique experiences through indigenous scholarship and studies among contemporary college students It seeks to provide an understanding of the essential link between practices for incorporating island indigenous curriculum strategies for effective student learning and course designs which are aligned with frameworks that address indigeneity and that place college teachers in the role of leaders for lifelong learning through indigenous scholarship and studies in Oceania It is ideal for professors practitioners researchers scholars academicians students administrators curriculum developers and classroom designers

School Choice and the Betrayal of Democracy Robert Asen, 2021-10-04 Evidence shows that the increasing privatization of K 12 education siphons resources away from public schools resulting in poorer learning conditions underpaid teachers and greater inequality But as Robert Asen reveals here the damage that market based education reform inflicts on society runs much deeper At their core these efforts are antidemocratic Arguing that democratic communities and public education need one another Asen examines the theory driving privatization popularized in the neoliberalism of Milton and Rose Friedman as well as the case for school choice promoted by former secretary of education Betsy DeVos and the controversial voucher program of former Wisconsin governor Scott Walker What Asen finds is that a market based approach holds not just a different view of distributing education but a different vision of society When the values of the market choice competition and self interest shape national education that policy produces individuals Asen contends with no connections to community and no obligations to one another The result is a society at odds with democracy Probing and thought provoking School Choice and the Betrayal of Democracy features interviews with local on the ground advocates for public education and offers a countering vision of democratic education one oriented toward civic relationships community and equality This book is essential reading for policymakers advocates of public education citizens and researchers Aerospace Structural Metals Handbook ,1989

Handbook on Hybrid Organisations David Billis,Colin Rochester,2020-02-28 Hybrid Organisations that integrate competing organisational principles have become a preferred means of tackling the complexity of today s societal problems One familiar set of examples are organisations that combine significant features from market public and third sector organisations Many different groundbreaking approaches to hybridity are contained in this Handbook which brings together a collection of empirical studies from an international body of scholars The chapters analyse and theorise the position of hybrid organisations and have important implications for theory practice and policy in a context of proliferating hybrid forms of organisation General Catalogue of Printed Books to 1955 British Museum.
