Rudolph, 2019-06-01 A former Wisconsin high school science teacher makes the case that how and why we teach science matters especially now that its legitimacy is under attack Why teach science The answer to that question will determine how it is taught Yet despite the enduring belief in this country that science should be taught there has been no enduring consensus about how or why This is especially true when it comes to teaching scientific process Nearly all of the basic knowledge we have about the world is rock solid The science we teach in high schools in particular laws of motion the structure of the atom cell division DNA replication the universal speed limit of light is accepted as the way nature works Everyone also agrees that students and the public more generally should understand the methods used to gain this knowledge But what exactly is the scientific method Ever since the late 1800s scientists and science educators have grappled with that question Through the years they ve advanced an assortment of strategies ranging from the laboratory method to the five step method to science as inquiry to no method at all How We Teach Science reveals that each strategy was influenced by the intellectual cultural and political circumstances of the time In some eras learning about experimentation and scientific inquiry was seen to contribute to an individual s intellectual and moral improvement while in others it was viewed as a way to minimize public interference in institutional science John Rudolph shows that how we think about and teach science will either sustain or thwart future innovation and ultimately determine how science is perceived and received by the public Assessing Contexts of Learning Susanne Kuger, Eckhard Klieme, Nina Jude, David Kaplan, 2016-12-05 This volume brings together educational effectiveness research and international large scale assessments demonstrating how the two fields can be applied to inspire and improve each other and providing readers direct links to instruments that cover a broad range of topics and have been shown to work in more than 70 countries The book s initial chapters introduce and summarize recent discussions and developments in the conceptualization implementation and evaluation of international large scale context assessments and provide an outlook on possible future developments Subsequently three thematic sections Student Background Outcomes of Education Beyond Achievement and Learning in Schools each present a series of chapters that provide the conceptual background for a wide range of important topics in education research policy and practice Each chapter defines a conceptual framework that relates recent findings in the educational effectiveness research literature to current issues in education policy and practice These frameworks were used to develop interesting and relevant indicators that may be used for meaningful reporting from international assessments other cross cultural research or national studies Using the example of one particular survey the Programme for International Student Assessment PISA 2015 this volume links all theoretical considerations to fully developed questionnaire material that was field trailed and evaluated in questionnaires for students and their parents as well as teachers and principals in their schools The primary purposes of this book are to inform readers about how education effectiveness research and international large scale assessments are already interacting to inform research and policymaking to identify areas where a closer collaboration of both fields or input from other areas could further improve this work to provide sound theoretical frameworks for future work in both fields and finally to relate these theoretical debates to currently available and evaluated material for future context assessments
