Prose in Britain and France (1980-1999) Wiebke Sievers, 2007 This case study of the translation of contemporary German literature in Britain and France seeks to address the philosophical and anthropological problem of otherness and to discover its significance for translation theory This work should appeal to scholars interested in German British and French literature translation theory philosophy and sociology central component of the translation process Moreover via disciplines such as philosophy and anthropology otherness in the last two decades has entered Western theories and studies of translation and become an important analytical and normative category in the field of translation studies Nevertheless there is an apparent lack of research considering the concept itself as well as its history and current use in the field and its relevance for the practice of translation the translation theories currently known as foreignizing and shows that some of these draw on the same nationalist agenda that they try to transcend Moreover the ensuing case study proves that current translation practice is still governed by a nationalist assurance of linguistic and cultural differences This book therefore concludes by calling for a change of perspective in the theoretical and practical approaches to translation Translation should no longer be regarded as a means of delimiting our selves from a national other but as a way to uncover the otherness underlying these alleged selves
