issues Economies of Representation, 1790-2000 Leigh Dale, Helen Gilbert, 2007 This volume documents the links among trade colonialism and forms of representation Examining trade in commodities as diverse as illicit drugs liquor bananas disease tourism adventure fiction and modern aboriginal art as well as cultural exchanges in politics medicine and literature the contributors contest the view of trade as an equaliser of cultures places and peoples promoted by some modern economists demonstrating instead the ways in which commerce has created and exacerbated differences of power

Handbook of Trade Policy for Development Arvid Lukauskas, Robert M. Stern, Gianni Zanini, 2013-10-10 There are many textbooks devoted to international trade but few volumes that survey trade theory policy and negotiations in a concise up to date manner from an interdisciplinary perspective This book provides a comprehensive overview of the issues that dominate both academic discourse and the policymaking arena in the field of international trade bringing to bear the insights of economics law and political science It also stands out by virtue of its emphasis on the development implications of trade an increasingly useful perspective given the deepening liberalization of developing and emerging market economies and their growing importance in the world economy The volume examines the full range of trade policy topics that dominate contemporary debates such as rules of origin trade in services competition public procurement and trade facilitation plus emergent controversial topics like trade related labour standards and environmental issues It analyses the international trade architecture and the institutional and practical aspects of policymaking and negotiations at the unilateral multilateral and regional level as well as the effects of trade on economic growth inequality and poverty It also explores the sharp increase in the number of preferential trade agreements and their significance for the global trade system The treatment of each issue is rigorous yet highly accessible to anyone with a basic background in economics law and international political economy

Economies of Representation, 1790-2000 Leigh Dale, 2017-11-30 Although postcolonialism has emerged as one of the most significant theoretical movements in literary and cultural studies it has paid scant attention to the importance of trade and trade relations to debates about culture Focusing on the past two centuries this volume investigates the links among trade colonialism and forms of representation posing the question What is the historical or modern relationship between economic inequality and imperial patterns of representation and reading Rather than dealing exclusively with a particular industry or type of industry the contributors take up the issue of how various economies have been represented in Aboriginal art in literature by North American Caribbean Portuguese South African First Nations Australian British and Aboriginal authors and in a diverse range of writings that includes travel diaries missionary texts the findings of the Leprosy Investigation Commission early medical accounts and media representations of HIV AIDS Examining trade in commodities as various as illicit drugs liquor bananas tourism adventure fiction and modern Aboriginal art as well as cultural exchanges in politics medicine and literature the essays reflect the widespread origins of the contributors themselves who are based throughout the English speaking world Taken as a whole this book contests the commonplace view promoted by some modern economists that trade in and of itself has a leveling effect equalising cultures places and peoples demonstrating instead the ways in which commerce has created and exacerbated differences in power International Economics Plus New Myeconlab with Pearson Etext (1-Semester Access) -- Access Card Package Paul R. Susana Iranzo, Giovanni Peri, 2007 Two prominent features of globalization in recent decades are the remarkable increase in trade and in migratory flows between industrializing and industrialized countries Due to restrictive laws in the receiving countries and high migration costs the increase in international migration has involved mainly highly educated workers During the same period technology in developed countries has become progressively more skill biased increasing the productivity of highly educated workers more than less educated workers This paper extends a model of trade in differentiated goods to analyse the joint phenomena of migration and trade in a world where countries use different skill specific technologies and workers have different skill levels education We calibrate the model to match the features of the Western European countries EU 15 and the new Eastern European members of the EU We then simulate the effects of freer trade and higher labor mobility between the two regions Even in a free trade regime the removal of the restrictions on labor movements would benefit Europe as a whole by increasing the GNP of Eastern and Western Europe Interestingly we also find that the resulting skilled migration the so called brain drain from Eastern European countries would not only benefit the migrants but through trade could benefit the workers remaining in Eastern Europe as well
