✓ Exclusively available on IvyPanda

Popular sovereignty was transformative for the political and social processes sparked by the Independence revolutions by establishing the principles of democratic government with the foundation of a new nation, in which the people and their elected leaders were charged with creating a constitution. The Mexican constitution was based on the "Declaration of Independence of North America", this declaration asserted that governments are created by the consent of citizens and may be replaced as soon as they contravene their interests (Sabato 200). Thus, through the concept of popular sovereignty, the Mexican Constitution was recognized as an important influence on revolutionary since it was the first constitution to recognize popular sovereignty and, therefore, the end of any hereditary claim to power by a monarch or ruling class.

In terms of social processes, there was increased racial equality and freedom of movement. Not only were people of European ancestry allowed to join Latin American societies, but also those from other places, such as indigenous peoples and Africans. During the independence period, sections of the population were politically and socially marginalized. Most of these groups consisted of people of African descent (mainly from
