An Examination of Multicultural Competence of Student Affairs Professionals in Community Colleges Darica Nechille Simon, 2019

Student Affairs Professionals' Level of Multicultural Competence Tasha Langdahl, 2002

The Relationships Between Multicultural Competence, Racial Identity, and Multicultural Education and Experiences Among Student Affairs Professionals Responsible for First-year Student Orientation Programs, 2005 As the student population in American colleges and universities becomes increasingly diverse it has been argued that multicultural competence should be acknowledged and integrated as a core competency for the profession However there is relatively little research on multicultural competence in student affairs particularly as it relates to specific functional areas This study focusing on professionals responsible for first year student orientation programs explored the relationships between multicultural competence and racial identity multicultural education and experiences and demographic variables Additionally it explored the relationship between varying levels of multicultural competence and 1 the relative diversity of orientation student staffs 2 the degree to which multicultural issues are addressed in orientation student staff training and 3 the inclusion of multicultural programs during first year student orientation programs A national sample of 198 orientation professionals was solicited through professional association listservs and through the use of snowball sampling technique Each participant completed four self report instruments via a web survey Ex post facto correlational design was employed and correlations and regression analyses were utilized to examine the possible relationships between the variables considered Several important findings emerged from this study First race and identification with a socially marginalized group correlated significantly with multicultural competence Second racial identity was strongly related to multicultural competence even when controlling for the influence of demographic variables and social desirability Third multicultural education and multicultural experience contributed uniquely and significantly to multicultural competence Fourth the combination of racial identity multicultural education and multicultural experience significantly predicted multicultural competence scores And finally while no significant relationships were found between multicultural competence and the three specific areas of orientation practice examined the study provided evidence that more direct connections between multicultural competence research and practice are needed The implications of this study are discussed focusing on student affairs training and development orientation practice measurement of multicultural competence and directions for future research In sum this study contributes to the heretofore limited literature addressing multicultural competence in student affairs specifically within the functional area of orientation

The Journey of Developing Multicultural Competence: A Phenomenological Exploration of Lived Experience in Student Affairs Professionals Serena Ota St. Clair, 2007 Prior research has noted the changing demographics of higher education since the Civil Rights Movement and the expanded need for multicultural education Armando Hernandez Morales 2003 wrote that A multiculturally competent person is aware of and knowledgeable about cultural differences their own cultural identity and the history and contemporary struggles of marginalized groups Morales retrieved 2005 This study adds to the field by examining the life experiences that led to the development of multicultural competence in student affairs professionals using a qualitative research method Seven co researchers were selected from a pool of 17 adults who were currently working or had recently worked in student affairs and who had been nominated by their peers for demonstrating multicultural competencies Each of the co researchers was posed with five prompts The co researchers responses were recorded transcribed reviewed by the co researcher and then analyzed using phenomenology a qualitative research method outlined by Moustakas 1994 The first step in this process was the Epoche where the researcher disclosed her personal relationship to the questions Themes from the interviews were clustered into 14 themes that were then categorized into three realms personal professional and structural institutional The research concluded within the personal realm that the development of multicultural competence begins with a personal awareness of one s own multicultural background and an internal motivation for self improvement Within the professional realm in addition to continual training it is necessary to operate under a shared vision and philosophy and develop effective communication channels between departments Finally in the structural realm leadership must act under a set of guiding principles that value diversity and equity and that require the development of multicultural competencies This study adds a qualitative perspective to the field of multicultural competence illuminates the role of student affairs in this field suggests ways to support graduate training programs develop these skills in student affairs professionals and demonstrates the significance of personal background as the foundation of multicultural competence

Cultural Competence in Higher Education Tiffany Puckett, Nancy S. Lind, 2020-09-03 This book covers teaching cultural competence in colleges and universities across the United States providing a comprehensive reference for instructors researchers and other stakeholders who are looking for material that will assist them in working to prepare students to become culturally competent      Designing Transformative Multicultural Initiatives Sherry K. Watt, 2023-07-03 Higher education is facing a perfect storm as it contends with changing demographics shrinking budgets and concerns about access and cost while underrepresented groups both in faculty ranks and students are voicing dissatisfaction with campus climate and demanding changes to structural inequities This book argues that to address the inexorable changes ahead colleges and universities need both to centralize the value of diversity and inclusion and employ a set of strategies that are enacted at all levels of their institutions It argues that individual and institutional change efforts can only be achieved by implementing diversity as a value that is embracing social change efforts as central and additive rather than episodic and required and provides the research and theoretical frameworks to support this approach as well as tools and examples of practice that accomplish change The contributors to this book identify the elements that drive successful multicultural initiatives and that strengthen the effectiveness of campus efforts to dismantle systemic oppression as well as the individual and organization skills needed to manage difference effectively Among these is developing the capacity of administrators faculty and student affairs professionals as conscious scholar practitioners to sensitively manage conflicts on campus deconstruct challenging structures and reconstruct the environment intentionally to include in respectful ways experiences of historically marginalized groups and non dominant ways of being in the world The books focus on developing capacities for multicultural competence aligns with higher education s increasing emphasis on civic engagement and institutional goals promote skills to interact in meaningful and responsible ways around difference whether of people ideas or identities Designing Transformative Multicultural Initiatives provides guiding principles and practical strategies to successfully transform higher education to become fully inclusive and advance the success of all constituents and stakeholders      A practical supervision model for improving student affairs practitioners' multicultural competence Grant Michael Schoonover, 2010      The Relationship Between White Racial Consciousness and Multicultural Competence Among White Student Affairs Practitioners John A.
